THE CLUB: LIVING THE DREAM AT THE BOTTOM OF ENGLISH FOOTBALL BY SIMON AKAM PDF

English Football has over 92 fully professional clubs. Players in the Premier League teams now earn an average salary of £2.3 million per annum. Meanwhile, on the bottom rung, entire squads make less in a year than Wayne Rooney takes home in a month. An army of young players sacrifice their education and prospects outside of sport for the dream of football success, despite that fact that 85% will be released from their contracts within five years.

Luton Town Football Club played a vital role in bringing this book to life by opening their doors and allowing a Newsweek Europe journalist to embed with them: a generous act, which has resulted in a remarkable glimpse into life in a lower league club, and the community around it. Simon Akam's book shows what aspiring to be part of the beautiful game really means for most players.

A good read

By tonyperito

The author shares a close-up look at the Luton Town club in the context of the economic forces that make its existence somewhat precarious. With the huge sums of money being poured into the top-flight clubs, stories like this don't get the attention, so this sheds light on the status of football at the grassroots level.
