Unique Site

By Jorge

Most of the major cities of the world have some unique site, natural or man made that is not to be found in any other city. Athens has the Acropolis, San Francisco has the Golden Gate Bridge, and Sidney has it's Opera House. This volume selects the cities, then uses a relief type map of each one to locate a half dozen or more notable points of interest with a brief description of each and contains text concerning the cities' history and locale. The unique site in each is given a two page special treatment with enlargement and detail so that the reader may really understand the special qualities of that site. The detail offered really enables the reader to comprehend what makes it so special. Some may argue about the choice of city or choice of site in that city as obviously all can not be included. But few will disagree that the ones that were chosen to be featured are indeed qualified to be selected.
